Individual sessions when you need them to support your child's educational journey

I am an adoptive parent and specialist teacher, currently working with schools and families in Surrey.

I have had over 20 years experience as a class teacher, in senior leadership roles and working with the local authority to support schools.

I have a keen interest in supporting families and children. Over the years I have kept myself up to date with current thinking around trauma and attachment .

Through my studies and training in Theraplay, DDP and Drama therapy, I regularly use the principles of therapeutic arts in my work to support the wellbeing of the children and families I work with.

I recognise the challenges we face as parents and hope that I can offer you some support, in a purposeful empathic way .

I look forward to meeting you soon.
